

New President Named

P. Wesley Lundburg, an experienced community college leader who for the past five years has been serving as Executive Dean and CEO of the Ammerman Campus at Suffolk County Community College on Long Island, New York, has been named the new president of Miramar College. Lundburg will begin his post July 1, 2020.

Ammerman is the largest of Suffolk County Community College's three campuses with more than 17,000 credit and non-credit students. Suffolk County Community College is the largest community college in the State University of New York (SUNY) system.

"The San Diego Community College District's Board of Trustees and I were impressed by Wes Lundburg's student-centered approach," said SDCCD Chancellor Constance M. Carroll. "Also impressive is his commitment to cultivating an environment where diversity is a priority, his dedication to ensuring equity in implementing policy, and his track record of building programs and curriculum that are inclusive."

"I'm thrilled to be joining the faculty and staff at San Diego Miramar College in serving the students and community," said Lundburg. "This college has a rich history of offering high quality academics with a truly comprehensive array of programs. Having grown up in Penasquitos, I'm particularly invested in the community and am excited to have the opportunity to return home and contribute to the place I love. The faculty and staff are clearly a dedicated group, and I am honored to have been selected to join them and work alongside them."

At Suffolk County Community College, Lundburg oversaw the Ammerman Campus's development and continued growth of a new cybersecurity program, an expanding Automotive Technology program certified by numerous automobile manufacturers, the completion of multiple capital improvement projects, and annual increases in enrollment. He also served as an adjunct English professor who taught composition and literature courses.

Prior to arriving at Suffolk County Community College, Lundburg served as Dean of Bristol Community College's New Bedford Campus in Massachusetts; Interim President and CEO at Prince William Sound Community College in Valdez, Alaska; Dean of Instruction/Chief Academic Officer at Prince William Sound Community College; and Dean of Academic Affairs at Minnesota State Community & Technical College – Fergus Falls following eight years as an English professor.

Lundburg is currently completing his PhD in Education, Community College Leadership from Walden University, where he also earned a master's degree in educational research. He earned a bachelor's degree in English and a master's degree in English Literature from the University of Alaska Anchorage. He also has an associate degree from Fresno City College.

Lundburg is a Coast Guard veteran who for several years owned and operated a full-service fishing charter boat company.

SDCCD Board President Maria Nieto Senour says Lundburg's leadership qualities will benefit the campus and community. "The board was unanimous in supporting the appointment of Wes Lundburg," said Board President Senour. "All five board members value the many educational contributions of Miramar College to our community and believe that Mr. Lundburg's educational experience, as well as his experience in the military and private sector, and his commitment to all forms of diversity will provide the leadership the college needs for the future."

His appointment is subject to ratification by the SDCCCD's Board of Trustees at the board's June 11 meeting.

Presidential Candidate Forums

Prior to the appointment of P. Wes Lundburg as our next president, a pair of candidate forums were held. In mid-May, the two finalists of the presidential search met the campus via Zoom. On May 12, P. Wesley Lundburg, Executive Dean/CEO of the Ammerman Campus at Suffolk County Community College in Long Island, NY, joined us via Zoom. Lundburg said he is mission driven and "has a talent for getting people to work together and I do that through trust." Lundburg comes from a college that is quite similar to Miramar College. Lundburg's current college features Auto Tech, a police academy, a childcare center (with accreditation) and they are in the beginning stages of implementing Guided Pathways. One hundred-forty participants took part in Lundburg's forum.

On May 13, Dr. Star Rivera-Lacey, vice president of Student Services at San Diego Continuing Education, took part in her forum. Star was a past director of Student Support Services at Miramar College and had an office in the old bungalows. Star understands the culture of the district and feels she has a unique ability to unify constituency groups.

Candidates were introduced by moderator Pam Luster, president of Mesa College, who served as chair of the Miramar College Presidential Search Committee. Candidates then had between 3-5 minutes to introduce themselves followed by 30 minutes of answering questions submitted by the constituency groups. An open question period took place over Zoom and the forums concluded with a closing statement by each candidate. Attendees then took part in polling to rate the candidates.

Second Laptop distribution

Miramar College distributed another 30 of the 300 laptops it purchased for students on Friday, May 1. Eleven

Students are able to borrow the laptop for Spring, Summer and Fall 2020 academic terms, provided that they are enrolled at San Diego Miramar College for each term. Students not returning to the college for the summer or fall had an opportunity to return their lap tops on June 1 on campus.

Scholarship Winners

A pair of Miramar College students each won a $20,000 UCSD Chancellor's Associates Scholarship to attend UC San Diego in the fall. Khoa Nguyen is an EOPS student majoring in general biology. ### Heroes Are Made Here Campaign

To highlight the San Diego Community College District's role in training local first responders, health care professionals, and other essential workers, the district has produced a new TV commercial entitled "Heroes Are Made Here." The 30-second spot, featuring each of the district's presidents, is also intended as a thank you to everyone in San Diego who has helped the community during the COVID-19 pandemic.
